

Partnership for Learning Q&A (2007 High School Counselor Video Conference)
[Questions in bold.]

Will there still be a middle school version of the EduGuide?

Yes. The Middle School EduGuide will be distributed directly to your district office as it has been in previous years. Please contact your district office in April to request your copies. This version of the EduGuide is currently not available for preorder through our new website.

How are the booklets: GRAB College Prep!, EduGuide High School, EduGuide College alike and / or different?

GRAB College Prep! And the High School EduGuide are similar in the information that they provide though different in the way in which this information is presented. The College EduGuide is completely different than “GRAB College Prep!” in that the college version of the EduGuide focuses on how to select the right financial aid and offers advice from experts and college students who learned the hard way so that your students will have a successful path toward college completion.

Who does Noah work for?

Noah Izzat is the Program Coordinator for EduGuide: Partnership for Learning. His main areas of responsibility for the organization are managing distribution channels for the EduGuide publications and running the Michigan College Goal Sunday campaign.

At EduGuide: Partnership for Learning we believe that every child has the potential to succeed in school and in life. The road to success, however, can be a bumpy ride. There are so many choices to make, changes to face, and challenges to overcome. Sometimes, it’s overwhelming. Sometimes, we all need a little help.

That’s why we’re here. We want to point students and their parents in the right direction – toward their goals and future success. We want to focus families on the things they can do – right now – to ensure their children grow up confident and ready to achieve.

How do we do it? Annually, our EduGuide publications for elementary, middle-school, high-school and college students reach over 1 million families across the US. Our training workshops for parents and teachers promote best-practices for strengthening family-school relationships. And our website brings it all together – it’s a place for parents, students and educators to find all of the resources they need to get answers to questions, information on issues, tools that support student learning and plans for making dreams reality.

We're ambassadors for cultural change. We won't quit until every family feels empowered to ask for and get the best education for their children. We won't quit until every child has fulfilled her potential and reached his goals. We won't quit until every teacher has the best tools to enable our shared purpose – student achievement.
